

Website Privacy & Cookie Policy

This is the main privacy policy for the website of SSAS Practitioner.com Limited and sets out how your data is protected whilst using this website.

Principles

We take the privacy and the protection of your personal data very seriously and will only store, process and disclose your data where we have legitimate business reasons and in accordance with current legislation.

We will make it clear when we collect personal information and will do our best to protect your information through the most up to date and secure information technology and will maintain current internet best practice at all times.

What we do with your information

We may use your personal data to provide you with information about our product and services, as well as sending out periodic emails and/or newsletters, as well as other information that we may feel will be of interest to you.

We may also use your information to collect standard internet log information and details in regard to website visitor behaviour and patterns.

Any information that you provide to us will only be used within SSAS Practitioner.com Limited.

Should you have indicated that you would like to sign up for direct marketing through our newsletter sign up page, you can at any point in time, change your mind by emailing us at info@ssaspractitioner.com. Once we have received notification from you that you wish to be removed from our mailing lists, your data will be removed and destroyed in accordance with current legislation.

We do not share or distribute your personal information to any third parties unless we are required by law to do so.

Security

We are committed to ensuring that your information is secure at all times. Managerial, electronic and physical safeguards have been put in place to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure of your data.

Links to other websites

Our website contains links to other websites of interest. Once you have left our website you should note that we do not have any control over that 'other' website. We cannot be responsible for the protection and privacy of any information that you may disclose whilst visiting such sites and therefore these sites are not governed by this privacy statement.

Cookies

What are cookies?

A cookie is a small amount of data which includes an anonymous unique identifier that asks permission to be placed on your computers hard drive, allowing web applications to respond to you as an individual. Each website can send its own cookie to your browser if your browsers preferences allow it.

We use cookies to identify which of our web pages are used and allows us to analyse data about webpage traffic to enable us to provide you with a better service and monitor pages that you may find more or less useful.

A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data that you choose to share with us.

You can accept or decline cookies. Most browsers will automatically accept cookies but you can modify your browser in settings to decline cookies if you prefer. Please note however, that by changing the setting on your browser to disabled, may hinder some of the website functionality.
